

INFLATABLE INSULATING LINERS FOR SHIPPING CONTAINERS AND METHOD OF MANUFACTURE

Abstract of Disclosure

An inflatable insulating panel consisting of a plurality of sheetform polyolefin layers, and its manner of fabrication, is provided. An outer peripheral seal forms an inflatable panel, with an intermediate interconnected web of layers formed out of an array of alternating seams of attachment between the outer and intermediate adjacent layers. Upon inflation of the panel, the interconnected web expands to form a plurality of individual baffle chambers.
